Auezov University has a student-led organization dedicated to sustainability and environmental protection. Our response below covers two key points:

1. Operating under the auspices of the Rae Kwon Chung Center for New Climate Economy and Sustainable Development, the "Eco First" Eco-Club actively engages students in environmental initiatives.

Motto: "Unity with nature is the path to sustainable development."

2. Additionally, the university hosts numerous student organizations focused on sustainability and environmental protection, as well as groups that organize events dedicated to the 17 UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). Below is detailed information on all sustainability-related student organizations and their initiatives, conducted both on and off campus. Each entry includes a direct link to an official web resource describing the organization or its events.
